

Rang Badlav Ke - Writer Guidelines

Thank you for signing up as a writer for Rang Badlav Ke - Paint The Change.

Here are some important guidelines:

- Be respectful of the privacy of residents of Sanjay Camp. This is their home. We are their guests. If someone does not want to give an interview, please don't take offense. Just smile at them warmly and approach someone who is happy to talk.
- Our goal is create a book called "Stories from Sanjay Camp" - with the photos and the writing and organize an exhibition inviting the community residents and the Rang Badlav Ke volunteer community! The book will be a collection of photos and stories of the ordinary and beautiful people of Sanjay Camp.
- Here are some aspects to write about:
 - Write about the residents of Sanjay Camp - their life story, where they came from, why they left their villages, their dreams and struggles, etc.
 - You will be covering this event which is about bringing colour and life to Sanjay Camp through community participation and volunteerism. Write about the camaraderie and friendships developed from working together.
 - This event is also about breaking the walls that divide us all in this huge and complex city. How does the community feel about people from all walks of life coming to make their community beautiful?
 - Write about the chaos and color of the event.
 - Feel free write prose, poetry or anything you feel like.
 - Please email your writing at bmminfo@satyarthi.org.
- Please share widely on Instagram, Facebook and twitter - show off your writing to the world! The handles we are using are #rangbadlavke and #paintthechange.
- DON'T FORGET TO BRING YOUR NOTEBOOK AND PENS!
